THE EVANGELISTIC MEETING

Many Reconsecrations and a Number of Conversions Result of First Week's Services

Interest in the evengelistic meetings being held in the different Protestant Churches is on the increase each night. Reports received from the different churches where the services are being held show that there have been many reconsecrations and some conversions as a result of these meetings.

These services were opened last Sunday and will be continued next week. There will not however, be any services tomorrow night.

WOUNDED IN FRANCE

Edward E. Lynn, twenty-eight years old, son of Mrs. G. A. Lynn, 803 King street, was wounded while in action in France September 12, according to word just received by his mother. Private Lynn was a member of the Alexandria Light Infantry and went to Anniston, Ala., with that company and afterward was transferred to a camp in South Carolina and was a member of the Rainbow Division.

GRAND THEATRE

Fully three hundred persons were turned away at the Grand last night. "My Four Years in Germany" playing continuously from 2 until 11 o'clock to capacity audiences. There is a continuous performance again today, the same wonderful film being shown.

There will be an educational charm to the stirring photo-drama that the ordinary picture does not possess—for reflecting the grandeur of Arizona's wonderful canyon before the eyes of photoplay devotees is an accomplishment indeed.

OPPOSES LEAGUE

Senator Reed Brands Advocates Greater Traitors to Country Than Benedict Arnold

Before a crowded Senate yesterday Senator James A. Reed delivered a scathing attack upon the proposals for the formation of a league of nations and an international court, which were contained in President Wilson's fourteen principles of peace.

Speaking for more than an hour in his most forceful manner Senator Reed characterized the idea that the United States should join such a league as "the most monstrous doctrine that ever was proposed in this great republic."

He declared that maintenance of the league would require a large army powerful enough to conquer any nation in the league including the United States if it should become a member.

"I say here today that any man who would willingly advocate the forming of any army strong enough and powerful enough to conquer the United States of America is a greater traitor to his country than was Benedict Arnold," said Senator Reed.

Senator Reed showed to the Senate a chart which he had made to point out how the ruling houses of Europe were all connected by ties of blood relationship or marriage. He said that this circumstance alone should act as a warning to the United States against entering a league of nations in as much as the ruling houses could be depended upon to stand together as a unit against this country. The same condition would apply he said, to an international tribunal.

Senator Reed said that America would find her opportunity in developing the countries of South America and in binding them together in a trade alliance. Against the policy of joining hands with the countries of Europe he protested in a vehement fashion.

HUNS DELIVER SHIPS

Seventy-One Vessels, Pride of German Navy, Nows in Hands of Allies.

Aboard the U. S. S. Wyoming in the North Sea, Nov. 22.—The bulk and pride of the German navy surrendered fifty miles off the coast of Scotland at between 9.30 and 10 o'clock yesterday morning. It included seventy-one ships of all classes, including destroyers. The surrender went off according to plan. British warships escorted the German craft into the Firth of Forth, where internment was begun at 1:45 p. m.

The admiralty flashed the following official announcement by wireless:

"The commander-in-chief of the grand fleet has reported that at 9:30 o'clock in the morning he met the first and main installment of the German high seas fleet, which is surrendering."

The German surrendering fleet was short three vessels, namely, one battleship, on cruiser and one light cruiser It was explained these would be delivered later.

HUNS BEAT PATIENTS

Many Prisoners in the German "Slaughter-House" Starved by Doctor And Assistants.

Paris, Nov. 22.—Civilians in the recaptured Laon region will not soon forget Dr. Michelson, of Germany, known as the "Butcher."

The "hospital" Michelson ran was called the "Slaughter House."

When the Germans invaded the region they organized this hospital for persons suffering from contagious diseases.

"Sometime the patients sent to this hospital came out, but they were always more infirm than when they went in," said the Mayor of a commune in the recaptured region.

Michelson was ignorant, lazy and brutal. He beat helpless patients. And his assistants took their cue from him.

"Some of the patients were starved as punishment for some imaginary fault which they had never been guilty of," said the Mayor.

"A black soup was the only form of nourishment. Michelson claimed he had asked for provisions, but they had been stolen on the way. Of course, he lied."

NOW TOTALS $21,000

Employes of Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation Donate $3,200 to War Work Campaign, Other Big Contributions Still Pouring in.

Contributions are still pouring into the headquarters in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce for the United War Work Campaign. Reports received today indicate that thus far $3,200 has been pledged by employes of the plant of the Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation. The total contributions up to date amount to about $21,000 and there are several big manufacturing concerns yet to be heard from.

In addition private contributions are being received, and the indications are that they will continue to come.

The committee is well pleased with the liberal response thus far on the part of citizens generally in this work.

The names of the contributors will be published from day to day in The Gazette until every name has appeared. There has been considerable difficulty in doing the work, owing to the large number of subscriptions turned in from the Sunday campaign.

MURDER IN CAMPBELL

Father Finds Body of Daughter in Woods Near Her Home

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 22.—Authorities of Campbell county are still searching the woodlands near Bocock in an effort to locate the assailant of Miss Rosa Farmer whose horribly bruised body was found in the woods near her home early Wednesday morning, announcement of which was made in yesterday's Gazette.

Up to midnight Wednesday there was no clue to the location of the assailant and the authorities began discussing the advisability of obtaining bloodhounds to follow the tracks; many of which appear in the soft turf where the body was found.

The victim of the attack left her home some time after dinner Tuesday, going to the woods where she had placed many traps in an attempt to catch rabbits for the market and for home use. When night came she had not returned. While her parents became alarmed, they consoled themselves with the thought that she might have remained overnight with some of the neighobrs.

When Wednesday morning came and there was no word from the missing girl the father started on a hunt, following the path the girl had taken when she left her home the afternoon before. A little over a mile from her home the father came upon the body of his daughter, lying upon the ground inert. When he reached the body the whole terrible story flashed upon him. He raised her head, but the glassy eyes and cold form indicated she had been dead for hours.

Horrible gashes were on her face while at her throat were the marks which plainly told the story of how she had met her death. All about where the father found the body the turf was torn up, giving evidence that a desperate struggle took place before the spark of life had flown from his daughter's body. Her clothing was torn to shreds, while her hands gave evidence that she had clawed at both her assailant and the shrubbery nearby before the constant pressure upon her throat had ended her life.

Torn by grief, the father rushed to his home and aroused the near-by neighbors. Men left their work in the search for the assailant. Every acre of ground for miles about the scene of the crime was tramped over, but this minute search failed to produce anything tangible.

County authorities were then appealed to, and they also joined in the search. An autopsy was held, whereupon the coroner rendered a verdict that Rosa Farmer had met her death at the hands of an assailant as yet unknown.

Early in the search the theory was advanced that the victim of the tragedy might have met with a wild animal, whose ferocity had torn and lacerated her flesh. This theory was dispensed, however, when the footprints in the turf revealed two sizes and shapes of footwear. Also the mark on the girl's throat bore mute testimony that a man of powerful strength had perpetrated the act.

THE NEED OF NURSES

Although War is Over This Need is as Great Now as Ever—Questionnaires to be Distributed to all Nurses and Those Partially Trained

Have you seen the sign—"I Have—Have You?" and do you know what they stand for? They mean that every graduate nurse, every under-graduate nurse, every student nurse, every trained attendant, every practical nurse, every mid-wife, and all those who have taken Red Cross courses in home care of the sick or home dietetics or first aid are supposed to respond to this survey.

The Surgeon-General of the Army has asked the Red Cross to make this nation wide survey of the nursing resources.

It is up to the nurses to respond willingly and it is up to everyone to see that the survey is completed rapidly.

The day of the nurse is at hand! Her profession—always one of the highest on the scale of standards—has suddenly leaped to first place and now occupies an enviable position on the ladder of fame.

Don't you want to help the Red Cross uphold the high standard of health and sanitation in our crowded cities and keep the complement of nurses in our nurseries, sanatoria and hospitals up to it full quota? Here is your chance to do both.

Have you an automobile? If you are not a nurse have you wondered how you could be of service at this time to the government that is protecting YOU? Count up the nurses whom you know or have heard of—remember they can be of all kinds—make a list and go out in your automobile armed with a supply of questionnaires, which you can obtain from Mrs. G. T. Klipstein, and get everyone of those nurses to sign. Don't forget to see that nurse who was recommended to you some time ago, but because she had retired and hadn't a telephone you had not bothered with. We need her the government cannot afford not to have her name and qualifications. Arm yourself with the "Red Cross spirit" and make up your mind to "go and get."

Remember—every nurse of every kind; every Red Cross student everywhere.

Miss H. B. Fenton, chief nurse of the Red Cross Sanitary Unit, is engaged in having those persons who have had partial training in hospitals, or any one having nursing experience fill out the questionnaires which are being supplied by local representatives of the Red Cross.

Although the war is practically over the need of nurses at this time is just as great as ever in guarding the health of the people of this country, and until the troops are demobilized the need of nurses will be just as great as ever.

MISS IMOGENE CRILLY DIES

Miss Imogene Crilly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah H. Crilly, of 607 Cameron street, died yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Alexandria Hospital. Miss Crilly went to that institution Monday where she underwent an operation.

The deceased was a student at St. Mary's Academy and enjoyed a wide circle of friends who will regret to hear of her death.

Her funeral will take place at 9:30 o'clok tomorrow morning from St. Mary's Catholic Church.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of our dear sister, NETTIE V. ROBEY, who departed this life seven years ago today, November 22, 1918.

I sigh to see her face again
Yet I know it cannot be,
So I will leave her in the hands of Him
Who comes for her and me.

Nobly at her post she stood,
A sister fond and true,
Loved by all her friends so well,
And kind to all she knew.

I often sit and wander
What she would think or say,
If she knew the changes that have happened
Since the day she went away.

By the Family.

MURDER LAST NIGHT

Roy Johnson, Colored, Shot and Killed by John Griffin Colored, Who Also Shoots Bud Brown in Both Legs—Griffin Captured Today

John Griffin, alias Charles Newton, colored, about twenty-one years old, last night at 9:30 o'clock went to the house occupied by Bud Brown, colored, 409 South Alfred street, and opening the front door fired several shots killing Roy Johnson, colored, about thirty years old, and wounding Bud Brown, colored, occupant of the house.

Immediately following the shooting Griffin fled.

Murderer Captured Today

Griffin was captured at 11 o'clock this morning at Mount Vernon by Sergt. Scott and Policeman Kerns. The police decided to make a detour of the lower part of Fairfax county and set out on a search for the fugitive in an auotcmobile.

Believing the murderer was at a place they suspected they circled about or the purpose of heading him off. After being at Mount Vernon but a short time they saw a man emerge from the woods. Both officers, wearing civilians clothes, approached the man and asked him his name. Griffin unaware that the men were officers replied to Sergt. Scott "John Griffin." Immediately the sergeant produced his pistol and covered the negro saying, "You are the man we want." Griffin then denied his name.

The prisoner was brought here at 11:30 o'clock and later he acknowledged the shooting and stated his reason was that Johnson sold him a pint of what was supposed to be whisky which he later discovered was water and charged him $2 for the water.

Both Johnson and Griffin were empolyed on construction work in Fairfax county several miles below this city and are from the south.

Following the shooting Policeman Kerns went to the house and conveyed Johnson to the Alexandria Hospital in an automobile, but Johnson, who was shot below the heart, died before reaching the hospital. Two of the shots fired by Griffin entered both legs of Brown and Brown was treated by Dr. Albert Johnson at his home.

From what the police learned of the shooting there were several persons sitting in the room at the time when without warning Griffin opened the door and in true wild west fashion commenced shooting at Johnson. There was a scampede among the occupants of the room as the shots were fired and Johnson fell to the floor mortally wounded. Four shots were fired, and a third party in the room had a narrow escape from being struck by one of the bullets.

According to the police the supposed motive for the shooting was a grudge held by Griffin against Johnson. It was learned that Johnson was instrumental in securing the arrest of Griffin some other several weeks ago by the military authorities.

Sergt. Wilkinson and Policemen Reid and Talbott made a search of the entire southern end of the city late last night, going as far as New Alexandria with a view of locating the murderer. No trace of him, however could be found.

A coroner's jury composed of R. Blumenfeld, George K. Bender, A. J. Butcher, M. B. Shiflett, C. Conway Brawner and George W. Bontz, Sr., met at Wheatley's mortuary chapel at 11 o'clock this morning and after viewing the body was adjourned over by Coroner T. M. Jones until 6:30 o'clock tonight at police station where the case will be heard at the same time by Justice L. H. Thompson.

THE WAR WORK CAMPAIGN

Life sometimes asks
A little too much of us all.
We cannot give as we would,
Unless we have help ourselves
For no matter how urgent the call
There are limits—we are not made
Except to give mutual aid!

The result of the house-to house canvass in Alexandria in the interest of the War Work Campaign last Sunday has been published in the Gazette. Some of the contributions were necessarily small, many, especially little children, having given a few pennies.

This was commendabe, as they of their small means contributed virtually all they possessed—angels could do no more.

One of the prophets of the captivity exclaimed "For who hath despised the day of small things?" In the laws of Moses the offerings took a wide range. Those who could bring a bullock, sheep or lamb offered such, while others of little means were allowed to bring but a handful of flour in order to have a part in the religious services of that day. Provision was made for all, and there was no room for excuses.

Turtles doves and young pigeons, it will be remembered, were the offerings of Joseph and Mary when they brought the Wonderful Chid into the temple at Jerusalem, and the widow who dropped two mites into the treasury gave, according to the Holy One of Israel, more than those who had contributed of their abundance.

THE NEGRO AND HIS PISTOL

Another murder occurred in Alexandria last night, the particulars of which are given elsewhere in the Gazette. A negro shot one of his race down and seriously wounded another. The murderer returned the pistol to his pocket and was far away before the police could capture him.

This is the third murder in Alexandria in less than three months, and it will soon be necessary to establish a "murderers' row" in our city jail.

We have often lamented the fact that the Legislature of Virginia has failed to pass an act making it unlawful for any person to sell firearms, dirks, slungshots, brass knuckles and other murderous devices to irresponsible persons. It is unlawful to sell toy pistols to boys, and there is no good reason why negroes or vicious white men should be allowed to purchase dangerous weapons ad libitum.

It may be safe to say that a large percentage of negroes carry pistols. Many of this race would not consider themselves in a condition to appear on the streets, especially at night, without carrying firearms, and frequent murders are the consequence.

The three recent murders alluded to were, it appears, without provocation and, according to the evidence, can only be placed as capital offenses.

Alarmed over outbreaks which have occurred in various places since the ending of the war, three of which have taken place in Virginia, the State council of Defense has sent out circulars to mayors, chiefs of police and sheriffs calling attention to the fact that there have recently been in Virginia unusual and uncalled-for purchases of firearms, and asking that measures be taken at once to stop such purchases. "Undesirable and dangerous people are purchasing firearms in large quantities," says the letter, "and a very dangerous condition of affairs is being manifested at widely separated points."

FEED VICTIMS FIRST

The United States is now sending to Europe 250,000 tons of food for the populations of belligerent and neutral nations, who range all the way from underfeeding to actual starvation. A great part of this food is now at sea, and will be in European ports in a few days.

As the Philadelphia Record says, we have no disposition to inflict suffering needlessly upon any persons. But no people for 2000 years have had so little claim upon the pity of other nations as the German people have, and their victims must be fed first. If there is surplus food the Germans may have it. The German Government has just announced an increase in the bread ration from December 1 and nearly all the German sources of information have been saying for months that the food situation was less serious this year than last. The people of Poland, Belgium, Servia and Rumania and the Armenians are in much greater need than the Germans, and must be fed first. Mr. Hoover is on his way to Europe, and Dr. Solf cannot pull the wool over his eyes; he has summered and wintered in Belgium with German civil and military officials.

The statement regarding the purchases of food by our Government for European sufferers mentions the purchase from the Queen Elizabeth Fund of half a million cans of condensed milk, with the added information that "most of it will go to save Belgian babies, 1,250,000 of whom were left helpless when their parents were deported by the Germans. The parents having been carried off to Germany to work as slaves for Germans, Most of them were overworked and underfed till they died under their taskmasters. They were deported under precedents which the Germans had to go back to Pagan Rome for, and they were carried off, leaving a million and a quarter of helpless children, whose death the Germans desired, because if they could depopulate Belgium there would be more room for German colonies.

THE "NEW" GERMANY?

In warning us that we must continue to be watchful of Germany, Lord Reading does not express apprehension of German military trickery. General Foch is looking after that part of the business, and his address to the Allied troops shows that he does not intend to relax his vigilance. Germany has already surrendered as a belligerent unit and as a fighting proposition is more out of the game than Russia, where the Bolsheviki are still waging war against us. And she has yielded so much in territory, in strongholds, in arms and in ships that it is practically impossible for her to resume the struggle, no matter how much she might wish to do so.

What Lord Reading and others warn us against is German diplomatic trickery—against accepting her professions of repentance as genuine. "In peace as in war," he admonishes, "we must remember what has happened. We must take to our hearts the lessons of the past." And the chief of those lessons is that Germany is Germany, and that she is not likely to change her whole character in the twinkling of an eye.

A contemporary asks the question. What does the new German Government stand for today? All of us are more or less in doubt. One day we hear that Germany is about to become full sister to Russia, and German spokesmen like the strange reformer, Dr. Solf, and the equally strange democrat, Count Reventlow, plead with us in the name of free government to protect Germany from this danger by meeting our brief armistice conditions and feeding the hungry and repentant masses. And the next day we hear that the bread ration has been increased, and there are rumors that the Kaiser is watching from Holland the comedy of wolfish autocracy wearing the lamb's skin of harmless innocence.

What is this new Germany—Bolshevik or Hunnish? Is it our old enemy in a new and friendly dress, or is it our old foe gone mad with the Russian pipe dream? We can afford to wait and see, standing strictly on guard all the while. But if these people have come up to the mourners' bench in the spirit of true repentance, the mourners' bench has never been burdened with such a weight of sins before, and we are justified in declaring that the greatest miracle in all the history of mankind has been wrought. The miracle of the water turned into wine is as nothing to the miracle of a nation turned in a moment from the diabolism of Kultur into a thing of angelic sweetness and light.

CAMPBELL COUNTY HORROR

The ill-treatment, and murder of another young woman in Virginia has horrified not only people residing near the home of the victim but those in every section of the Old Dominion. A few months ago the body of a girl in her teens was found in Fairfax county, not far from Alexandria. The appearance of the corpse proved conlusively that the young woman had been the victim of a fiend. Although there have been arrests of suspects, many persons are inclined to believe the brute who committed the foul deed is still at large. Whoever perpetrated the horrible crime this week in Campbell county is still enjoying his freedom.

The question, "Was the last murder committed by the fiend who horrified Fairfax county?" Possibly. Or "Has a Jack the Riper appeared in the Old Dominion?"

Many years ago, it will be remembered, a negro committed a dastardly act in Fairfax county, near this city. He was subsequently captured and placed in the station house in Alexandria. His victim, an elderly German woman, positively identified her assailant. The negro was subsequently taken to Fairfax, tried and hanged. Previous to his execution he confessed having committed similar acts of brutality in Charlottesville and other places in Virginia, and his despotism cleared up a number of crimes against females in this state. In some cases his victims never disclosed their terrible experience, and their names were withheld.

(Communicated.)

Yesterday at 1:30 P. M., Imogene, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H Crilly, 607 Cameron street, died at the Alexandria Hospital. The news came as a shock to her countless friends in the city—many of whom had not dreamed that she was even seriously ill—had not suspected that the sweet-faced, smiling girl had been for years a patient sufferer.

To her immediate family this death is a deep sorrow, for Imogene—their youngest,—was the "flower of the flock." At St. Mary's Academy, where most of her young life was spent, she will be keenly missed.—She was a member of the undergraduating class, and classmates and teachers were looking forward daily with pleasure to her return to school. Though not, what in common parlance is known as a good "mixer" to those whose privilege it was to know Imogene well, she was an interesting personality, a lovable character—honor and principle were sacred virtues with her. Though not faultless, she hated all that savored of falsehood or deceit. No prizes or persuasion could tempt her to stoop to the small meanesses that many children think no harm. Her heart was a fountain-head of generous love and sympathy—suffering of any kind on the part of others touched her to tears. Though deeply spiritual, she was averse to parading piety, religion was to her the greatest thing in the world.

From earth's view point it is sad to see this sweet young girl, she was just seventeen—cut off in the flower of maindenhood—bright, young, beautiful, endowed with rare gifts mental and spiritual, and yet she has but answered the call of the Master—The Divine Master Who alone holds the key to the mysteries of life and death—Who alone "doeth all things well"—He has called her back to Paradise ere the sins and sorrows of death have sullied her white soul or touched her young heart. And those even who love her best must bow in sweet resignation to God's holy will.

Say not of her "So young alas to die"
Nor speak of blossoms culled ere yet full blown
Tis not by marshalled length of years is shown
Life's fullness or its worth. Her's now to vie
With Seraphim in love, to sanctify
The years eternal, bidding each intone
God's praise, her heart's unceasing antiphone—
So doth life's depth its lack of length supply.
One day to God is as a thousand years,
And hour of fervent prayer with Him outweighs
A century of baffling doubts and fears,
Of tepid service and half-hearted praise.
Say then of our loved Imogene—
—"How blest
To reach so soon life's goal—Our Father's breast."

VIRGINIA NEWS

The Du Pont Powder Plant at Hopewell is to be shut down and all production cut off, it was officially announced in Petersburg last night. Fifteen thousand men will be thrown out of employment.

Steps toward recruiting men for the American merchant marine were taken yesterday at Hopewell following the arrival at City Point of the steamer Gov. Dingley, of the United States shipping board, with 500 apprentice sailors in uniform aboard.

One of the largest pumpkins ever grown in Virginia has been raised by H. H. Reynolds on his farm in Scott county. When taken from the vine it weighed 117 pounds. J. A. Johnson, foreman in the Gate City Herald office, purchased the pumpkin and shipped it to President Wilson as as a Thanksgiving present.

Charles Dixon, a young white man who had been working at Seven Pines, was run over yesterday at Clifton Forge by a shifting engine in the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway yards, and instantly killed. His head was severed from his body. Dixon was supposed to be from West Virginia.

The body of John W. Cooper, sixty-six years old, a farmer of oyce, Clarke county, was found in Opequon Creek, on the Winchester-Millwood road, early Wednesday he had been in Winchester last night, and left for home, driving a horse and buggy. The horse is thought to have stumbled and fell, throwing the man out.

Revenue Officer H. V. Shugart, assisted by J. N. Wood and B. H. Mayes, raided a moonshine still Wednesday night, near Hyco Creek near South Boston. T. S. Oakley, a well-to-do farmer, upon whose farm the men were at work is said to have pushed Officer Shugart into the creek which, at this point, is nearly fifteen feet deep. The officer, in order to escape from the clutches of Oakley, who was a man weighing 160 pounds, was forced to let him go, and Oakley began to run, but was shot twice. He has been trailed by blood stains for half a mile. Six other men were arrested and jailed or released on bond. The still was of 150-gallon capacity. Thirty gallons of whisky, 1600 gallons of beer, the still a lot of hops, malt and meal was also taken by the officers.

COLLISION SINKS LINER

Campania Former Queen of Seas, Hits Warship in Gale.

London, Nov. 22.—The steamer Campania, once queen of the seas, has sunk in the Firth of Forth, Scotland, during a gale. All on board the vessel were saved.

The Campania broke from her moorings during the gale and collided with a battleship. She sunk before she could be beached.

The Campania a former Cunard Line transatlantic flier, for several years has been the mother ship for sea planes in the British navy. In 1893 the Campania made a record voyage from New York to Queenstown in five days twelve hours and seven minutes cutting the time of the American Line steamer City of Paris by two hours for the eastward trip.

The Campania was a vessel of 12,950 tons, and was built in Glasgow in 1892. When the war began the vessel was taken over by the British admiralty. She was in the Jutland fight and also took part in the operations by the allied fleets at the Dardanelles.

NEWS OF THE DAY

Promptly at the stroke of five yesterday afternoon both houses of Congress adjourned sine die their extraordinary session.

Further massacres of Jews in Poland and Galicia are reported in a cable message received by the Zionist organization of America in New York.

William Hohenzollern, former Kaiser of Germany, has been taken suddenly seriously ill, according to a dispatch. He is said to be suffering from influenza.

For the first time since the founding of the German empire the "Marseillaise" was played by a German band heading a procession down Unter den Linden last week.

Close estimates made yesterday in official quarters indicate that the total casualties in American armies in the foreign service up to the day hostilities ceased, were about 105,000.

It is now believed Helgoland, the German Gibraltar in the North Sea, will not be occupied by the allies, Germany being already rendered helpless in naval respects by the surrender of her main fleet.

The War Trade Board yesterday let down the bars upon the exportation of raw cotton. The board further removed war restrictions by shortening the conservation list. Import restrictions on hides and skins and rubber were also relaxed.

Following a vehement denunciation of the United States, John L. Randolh I. W. W., American Bolshevik leader and outcast from Australia, was yesterday in Auburn, N. Y., sentenced to serve ten years in the Atlanta Federal prison and fined $5,000 on a charge of sedition.

An army aviator was burned to death and his companion seriously injured when their airplane burst into flames and plunged to earth on the outskirts of Trenton, N. J. The injured aviator is Hobson Tupper, of the areo squadron at Mineola, N. Y. The name of the dead man could not be learned.

No additional information concerning President Wilson's trip to the peace conference was forthcoming from the White House yesterday. The only development was the elimination of former President Taft from the list of prospective peace envoys. It was learned authoritatively that he is not being considered.

From the beginning of the European war to the day of the signing of the armistice the American merchant marine lost from acts of the central powers 145 vessels ,of 354,449 gross tons, involving the loss of 775 lives. Including lives lost by the sinking of army and navy vessels the total passes the thousand mark.

Mrs. Samuel H. Rundle, aged twenty-five, bride of a month, wants a divorce, alimony and $500,000 from her elderly bridegroom, Samuel H. Rundle, aged eighty-seven, hat manufacturer and bank president of Danbury, Conn. The suit was filed by the bride, who was formerly Miss Gladys Brown, of New York and Washington. She charges intolerable cruelty.

Convene an international court to try the ex-Kaiser for his crimes against the world. That's the latest suggestion in Washington official circles, in answer to the question every man, woman and child is asking: "What shall we do with Bill Hohenzollern?" It was first advanced by Senator Miles Poindexter, who was a Spokane lawyer and district judge before his election to Congress, is an authority on international law.

Secretary Baker sent to Congress yesterday a statement setting forth that measures of retrenchment already adopted by the War Department have resulted in a saving of more than $1,000,000,000 which was appropriated for war expenditures. Contracts have been cancelled in sweeping fashion beginning on November 11, the day the armistice was signed. In many cases telegraphic orders have been sent out to contractors stopping the work without delay. Troops are also being demobilized at the rate of 200,000 each month.

Food prices will drop, not through the lowering of the cost of labor so much as by lower markets for raw materials. This was agreed upon by some of the largest food producers in America, who are attending the annual convention of the American Specialty Manufacturers' Association which opened a two-day session in Cleveland yesterday. No forecast was made when the lower prices would come, but it was predicted the reduction would follow the purchase of raw material on a lower market after present high price stocks are exhausted.

The Senate yesterday authorized an investigation of the work of the United States Shipping Board and the Emergency Fleet Corporation by the Committee on Commerce to supplement the report which under the law the shipping board must present on December 1. The resolution for the investigation, bearing the endorsement of the committee on commerce was presented by Senator Harding. The investigation will deal in the main with determining the amount of money expended, the ships built and their records in service.

President Wilson at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, signed the bone-dry prohibition measure, and thus made it a law. His action means that the sale and manufacture of all intoxicants shall be prohibited after July 1, 1919, and continue in force until the last of the American troops have been demobilized. The bill to which the President affixed his signature is officially known as the "food stimulation bill," but the bone-dry rider it carried was its chief stimulant, as far as publicity is concerned. Prohibition leaders say the law insures permanent prohibition for the nation because the process of demobilization may take two years.
